

Personal Knowledge Management

A form of software to which I am somewhat addicted.

Examples include:

- DokuWiki
- DEVONthink
- TheBrain
- VoodooPad
- Curio
- Tinderbox
- The Archive

DokuWiki, DEVONthink or The Brain?

I've been trying to figure out which is the right tool for the job.

Possibly the answer is that a DokuWiki is for augmented content whereas in DEVONthink the content has to effectively stand alone. This is because DEVONthink is based around the concept of files, but the Wiki is mixed-content hypertext.

The Brain seems effective in capturing ideas but I am yet to determine if it can support analysis and reflection.

I'm now also using The Archive to capture notes, with its content linked into iA Writer on iOS.

From:
<https://www.andrewcanion.com/wiki/> - Andrew Canion's Wiki

Permanent link:
https://www.andrewcanion.com/wiki/doku.php?id=personal_knowledge_management

Last update: 2019/03/19 11:10

